Missing plug, 1/4-mile oil trail

A semi-truck apparently lost its engine oil drain plug, leaking about 12 gallons of oil over a quarter of a mile on West Capitol Avenue on May 28. Fire crews (above) worked with police, public works and county environmental health officials to help clean up the mess, which extended from Walnut Avenue to Glide Avenue. Thursday is first day of farmers market

Tomorrow is opening day for the 2013 edition of the West Sacramento Farmers Market.

The market will be held Thursdays, 4:30 p.m. to dusk, on part of the street in front of city hall -- 1100 West Capitol Avenue.

Opening night includes a sit-down dinner cooked up by Chef Jess Milbourn of The Eatery and City Councilman Chris Ledesma. A portion of the proceeds goes to charity (this week, it goes to the Elderly Nutrition Program of Yolo County). The special dinner event continues the first Thursday of each month at the market.

Seating for the dinner is 100. As of yesterday, reports a chamber spokesperson, some tickets were still available.

Look for tickets to the "Dig In!" dinner at www.westsacramentochamber.com/events or call 371-7042. Tickets are $40.

Special to the first night of this year's market is the installation of a piece of large community artwork at the site. Artists Paula Wenzl Bellacera of West Sacramento and Taylor Gutermute of Sacramento have organized the project -- the first part of a two-year Yolo County "Mandala" effort. Residents from age two to 90 have chipped in to create 254 individual pieces of art from local agricultural materials. The two professionals have been preparing the weavings, mosaics and paintings to come together into a ground-level work that honors the Yolo County's agricultural heritage. The piece will be dedicated at 4:30 p.m., and will remain up near city hall "semi-permanently."

Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD) has given its "Prosecutor of the Year" award in California to Jonathan Raven, Chief Deputy District Attorney in Yolo County. The award "is presented to one prosecutor who has made a significant impact in one or multiple cases and worked closely with MADD," reports the office of District Attorney Jeff Reisig.

Judy Utter, a senior victim services specialist for MADD, said she saw Raven make a difference in a local case in which a family lost their daughter in a DUI accident.

"The judge was ready to let the defendant out of custody when Jonathan stood up and cited a new constitutional amendment giving victims the right to speak out at bail hearings," said Utter, quoted by the D.A.'s office. "Jonathan spoke with me and the mom outside and the mom made a passionate statement to the judge in open court. The judge did not let the defendant out of custody."

At the same recent award ceremony, several regional police officers were honored by MADD for fighting impaired driving. They included West Sacramento officer Matt Boudinot.

Checkpoint: four arrests, one for DUI

West Sacramento police conducted a checkpoint for drunk driver's and driver's license problems on Saturday night, May 25.

For several hours that night, they screened a total of 1,364 cars at Jefferson Boulevard and 15th Street.

Three people were cited for driving without a license, four were given field sobriety tests and one driver was arrested for DUI.

The police department announced the checkpoint in advance (this measure is meant to deter drunk driving), but they did not make public the exact location.

Nobody asked, but here's my advice to the graduates:

My Back Pages

By Daryl Fisher

I don't know about you, but I've always wanted to give one of those high school graduation commencement speeches. You know, where you put on a cap and gown and stand up in front of a whole graduating class and tell them what you think they need to know about life and how they should go about having a good one. But the last time I did any public speaking my daughter told me my nose twitched the whole time from being nervous, so I probably wouldn't make much of a commencement speaker. Anyway, it's still fun to think about what I would like to tell a gymnasium full of graduating high school seniors who weren't allowed to leave until I was through, and I think it would go something like this:

Let me begin my remarks this evening with some long ago words from Socrates: "Our youth now love luxury. They have bad manners and contempt for authority. They show disrespect for their elders and love chatter in place of exercise. They no longer rise when elders enter the room. They contradict their parents and chatter before company. They gobble up their food and tyrannize their teachers."

Socrates' buddy, Plato, went ever further, writing "What is happening to our young people? They disrespect their elders and disobey their parents. They ignore the law. They riot in the streets inflamed with wild notions. Their morals are decaying. What is to become of them?"

And some guy named Hesiod, who lived about four centuries before Socrates and Plato were even born, threw up his hands in disgust and said, "I see no hope for the future of our people if they are dependent on the frivolous youth of today, for certainly all youth are reckless beyond words."

So, it would seem that for as long as there has been recorded history, old people (even wise ones) have been convinced that young people were going to screw up the world as they knew it. Yet, for better or worse, the human race is still here, so young people must be doing something right.

Okay, this is the place in my speech when I am supposed to tell you to live up to your potential, follow your bliss, and make a difference in the world. But since I assume all of you will be trying to do those things, I will skip all of that and just pass along the following specific advice:

Be kind, especially to yourself. Life is a tough go and it's really true that in the end, only kindness matters.

Be generous, with both your time and your money. You were really blessed to be born in such a free and wealthy country and you need to give back whenever possible.

Don't suffer fools gladly, even if they are related to you. The fools of this world are full of negative energy and eager to weigh you down and make you heavy. You need to get them out of your life as soon as possible.

For all of you guys out there who have spent much of the past four years strolling through hallways and referring to the girls you passed as bitches, whores, and worse, you might want to start knocking that off, since those young girls that you so easily disrespect are soon going to be your wives and the mothers of your children. Not to mention that you might have daughters yourself someday.

For those of you who habitually use cuss words as adjectives, know that your future employers are going to demand that you have a much better grasp of the English language. Oh, and the last I looked, there is no good-paying job on earth (unless you are really good at rapping) that will allow you to show up at the office with your pants falling off your butt.

Remember that before anything really magical can happen in your life, you have to imagine it first.

Try not to spend too much time watching the news, especially Fox News. We don't need more Dittoheads in this world.

Make time to go down roads that go nowhere, or at least go walkabout on some of the ones that have been less traveled.

To all of you who aren't too interested in politics, you need to be. If you don't vote, know that those who always do are old and set in their ways and often could care less about the things that are going to shape your lives, like climate change, the cost of entitlement programs, and the global economy. Plus our elected politicians always seem to love to start new wars, and you are going to be the ones who are sent off to distant places to fight and die in them, assuming of course your generation is brave enough to insist that we stop having an all-volunteer army to do our dirty work for us.

Never stop being curious. It may kill cats, but it's what keeps human beings truly alive and well.

For those of you who are in love with credit cards, you need to know that compound interest can be your best friend, or your very worst enemy.

Remember that life is never fair or just and that it belongs to those who are willing to risk.

And most important of all, put your computer games, iPhones, and other electronic gadgets down every now and then and look into the faces of others!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR: an issue at Stonegate school

Stonegate staff change?

As the school year comes to a close, Stonegate Elementary families have received some disturbing and upsetting news regarding the future of our school.

Superintendent Dayton Gilleland has made an administrative decision to move Vice Principal Carla Marquez away from Stonegate Elementary and replace her with Carmelita Goldsby from Southport Elementary. Carla's impact on Stonegate has included reducing suspensions, fights and incidents to one of the smallest numbers in the district. She supports teachers, students and parents and is a constant advocate for Stonegate.

The superintendent claims that this move is intended to foster professional development. He states it will provide "a broadened perspective from their work with a new school community on their pathway to principalship." However, Mrs. Marquez has one year before she retires; she has made it very clear that she is not, nor does she wish to be, on a path towards becoming a principal. Mrs. Marquez has been integral in getting Stonegate's suspension rates to the lowest in the district. She counsels students to work through their issues together and make better decisions.

As Stonegate parents, our question is: How does this transfer benefit our students? We have not yet received an answer. This is a disruption which could be detrimental to our current positive environment, rather than conducive to student learning and achievement.

Our concerns are:

1. In our 6 years as a young school we have had 2 principals and 3 vice principals
2. Last summer, we had a boundary change which led to large class sizes and a loss of 3 teachers
3. Next year, Stonegate will undergo the following staff changes: [the author lists a number of retirements, new teacher placements and other staff changes]

The Stonegate community has endured enough changes and transitions in its 6 years. Our current administration has worked well together for 3 years and has weathered the storms of disruptions and upheavals. With so many staffing changes among our grade levels, the last thing we need is a new Vice Principal who is not familiar with our students and staff. With 4 years at Stonegate and over 30 years in the district, Carla Marquez is critical to our success with the upcoming school year. She needs to be applauded for her accomplishments and rewarded with finishing her career at the school she loves.

SIGNE MORTON,
President
Stonegate Elementary School PTO
(Parent Teacher Organization)

EDITOR'S NOTE: As the News-Ledger went to press, the News-Ledger received a reply on this issue being distributed by Dayton Gilleland, Superintendent of Washington Unified School District, to "Stonegate Parents and Staff."

In part, the Gilleland states that the transfer of principals "has caused a great deal of concern and, quite frankly, far more reaction than I anticipated."

"As I reached my decision regarding these moves, I felt committed to finding a resolution that would not jeopardize the effectiveness of an administrative team or school staff at one site for the sake of improving another. While I maintain that this is possible with the specific changes intended, I must reconsider these changes based upon the degree of concern expressed."

The letter, dated June 3, promised reconsideration and a final decision "within the next couple of days."

did you know that California also boasts over 1600 species of native bees? There are actually over 300 species just in Yolo County alone, and like honey bees, these guys lend a significant hand in pollinating local crops.

Recognizing many of the native bee species may be a little difficult for those of us without an entomology background, but there are some real standouts like the Blue Orchard Bees, the Metallic Sweat Bees, and the Valley Carpenter Bees which at about 1-inch in length are the largest bees in California. The female Carpenter Bees are shiny black, but the stingless males are fat, fuzzy and golden blond with large green compound eyes. They are often referred to as "Teddy Bear Bees".

At the Häagen-Dazs Honey Bee Haven in Davis, CA, I was lucky enough to speak with Dr. Robbin Thorp about bee conservation and how we can all help to preserve the species that are native to our region... and I also got up close to some of the Teddy Bear Bees. Some bee species are dwindling in numbers due to loss of habitat, disease and malnutrition. In northern California, for example, four species of bumblebees are already on the endangered list and one, the Franklin's Bumblebee, may now be extinct. The good news is that it's not too late to help our native bees. You can even create native-bee-friendly zones right in your own backyard.

Unlike honey bees that live together in massive colonies, native bees are generally solitary and unobtrusive guests. They live in small burrows in the ground or in narrow tunnels in wood. In your garden, you can encourage native bees to nest by providing them with patches of sunny, untilled, well-drained soil to burrow into. Or you can set up "bee condos" for them by drilling tunnels into chunks of wood, and setting those up in your garden.

After mating, the female bee will enter her underground hideout or the bee condo you've created, and will lay her eggs on little balls of doughy pollen. She'll then seal up the brood chamber with mud, pieces of leaves or resin so the babies are safe and well fed while they're developing.

Most native bees don't live for more than a season, and they spend a lot of time in their burrows while they're maturing, so you may only see them on the wing for a month or two. The best time to see the Teddy Bear Bees, for example, is between May and June in the late afternoon. Keep in mind that while the female bees have stingers, they usually only use them if they get trapped somewhere (like inside your clothing).

Dr. Thorp reminds us that native bees are "vegans" who need sugar from nectar and protein from pollen to survive, so planting a garden with that in mind will help to sustain the bees in your area. Almond trees, apple trees, acacia, germander and salvia plants produce a lot of flowers the bees really go for. They also like thyme, rosemary and most forms of daisy-like flowers. If you're planting rose bushes, keep in mind that there isn't enough pollen in the fancy multi-petal hybrid roses to feed the bees; they need roses with the simple five-petal blossoms on them that have lots of anthers. Plant for blooms throughout the year and you'll always have a supply of food for the bees. All of this will help ensure pollination of your flowers and fruit trees, and will turn your backyard into a friendly place for the bees to be!

NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on this property.

NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (866)-960-8299. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale

COUCH THEATER DVD PREVIEWS

BY SAM STRUCKHOFF

PICKS OF THE WEEK

" Quartet" (PG-13) -- At Beechum House, retired musicians spend their golden years singing with old colleagues and new friends. Maggie Smith plays Jean Horton, an accomplished opera singer whose ego alienated her former partners and ended her marriage. Now she's moving to Beechum House, where all of those people she pushed away are her best hope for a happy retirement.

This is Dustin Hoffman's first time directing, and he gets the balance just right. The movie manages to hit the emotional high notes without being too sappy. The seasoned actors do not disappoint. Billy Connolly, Tom Courtenay, Michael Gambon and Pauline Collins make up a sound supporting cast. Perhaps old English actors getting snippy about classical music isn't your thing, but you can still get a kick out of "Quartet."

"Jack the Giant Slayer" (PG-13) -- Here comes another fairy-tale "reimagined" with fancy computer graphics and more fighting. A willful and independent princess (Eleanor Tomlinson) is launched into the sky by a magic beanstalk, trapped in the clutches of angry giants who live above the clouds. The rescue effort is lead by a peasant-boy named Jack (Nicholas Hoult), a knight

'Jack the Giant Slayer'

(Ewan McGregor) and a sniveling noble (Stanley Tucci).

While it's a few hundred feet higher than "Hansel & Gretel: Witch Hunters," this new version of "Jack and the Beanstalk" might leave you bored mid-climb. The visuals are spectacular -- you'll be closer than you ever wanted to be to the pores on a giant's nose. There are a few good laughs. This one feels like a high-budget, mid-effort attempt to cash in on a trend.

"Stoker" (R) -- India (Mia Wasikowska) is a outcast teen with an emotional mother (Nicole Kidman). After India's father dies in a car accident, "Uncle Charlie" (Matthew Goode) comes to live with them. Charlie is a handsome, charming guy who is very clearly some kind of creepy dude underneath. India is drawn to his just-barely-visible creepiness, and a weird dynamic surfaces between the teenage girl and her "uncle." The twists and turns are pretty predictable, but the atmosphere and style make this movie worth checking out.

"The Brass Teapot" (R) -- Alice and John (Juno Temple and Michael Angarano) are a young married couple with lots of love and no money. After John loses his low-paying job, they happen to find an ornate teapot that belches out money whenever somebody nearby feels pain. At first it's just a bit of fun, then it becomes the answer to their problems, then new problems arise. For a dark comedy, it's not quite funny enough or dark enough. As the cute couple descends into greed, you'll feel more annoyed than connected.

"Homeward Bound" by Emily Matchar (Simon & Schuster, $26)
Reviewed by Ealish Waddell

Domesticity is having a cultural moment. More and more Americans are embracing "old-fashioned" skills of cooking, sewing, crafting, gardening and child-rearing, and increasingly opting out of the modern mainstream in favor of "the simple life." What is driving this renaissance of retro? Emily Matchar explores the phenomenon engagingly and compellingly in "Homeward Bound."

It's tempting to dismiss this trend as an escapist fantasy, a yearning for a romanticized, mythical past tinted by nostalgia and Instagram filters. But for many, the new "old life" encompasses fundamental ways of raising families, consuming food and other products, and interacting with society -- not just an aesthetic, but often a complete lifestyle change.

Some of the value is obvious. Widespread economic woes have led to a renewed understanding of the value of frugality and self-sufficiency. Continual reports of ecological calamity, corporate malfeasance and political negligence naturally make people wish for more control over their environment and the things they allow into it.

But Matchar also delves into the darker side. Of particular emphasis are the hotly debated gender issues inherent in exalting the practice of traditionally female occupations: Is this a setback for feminism, or a new era of it? She examines the accusations of economic and racial privilege in those who participate, the pressure against those who don't (or can't), and the implications for the health of society as a whole when so many bright young people are dropping out of it so completely.

"Homeward Bound" is a fascinating look into this emerging paradigm shift in American culture. Whether their reasons are practical, political or philosophical, for those whose search for meaning leads them home, revolution is the ultimate DIY.

The Kitchen Diva

BY Angela Shelf Medearis

Give Dad a Fun-Filled Basket for Father's Day

Father's Day is fast approaching, but I don't stress about what to get "the man who has everything" any longer. I've learned that a personalized, hand-made gift basket is the best way to go with both my Dad and my husband. One year I gave my husband a basket full of hot sauces. He loved it and enjoyed trying out all of the different, spicy varieties.

Since my father and my husband both loves movies, this year I'm making them a personalized MOVIE TIME popcorn, snack and DVD collection as their Father's Day gift. I'm using a large bowl that I'll personalize using a computer label and/or write on with a craft pen. I'll fill the bowl with bags of microwave popcorn and the crunchy, salty snacks they both love.

I'm also making four different kinds of homemade flavor mixtures that they can shake on their popcorn. I'm placing the mixture that into large salt-and-pepper shakers and personalizing them with labels that I'll make on my computer.

I'll place the shakers, popcorn, nuts, granola and retro movie candy, and their favorite or newly released DVDs in their MOVIE TIME baskets. I have recipes for homemade popcorn flavorings below.

Chocolate Popcorn Flavoring

Make this delicious chocolate flavor mixture for your movie popcorn gift basket.

1 package sweetened, instant cocoa mix
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 teaspoon turmeric
1 pinch of cayenne pepper (optional)

Southwestern Popcorn Flavoring

1 1/2 teaspoons chili powder
1 tablespoon paprika
1 tablespoon ground cumin
2 tablespoons salt

To make these flavoring mixtures, simply place the combination of the flavor ingredients you desire in a large measuring cup. Stir the ingredients together with a fork until combined, and transfer the mixture into a large salt or pepper shaker. Make a computer label with the name of the flavor mixture or write on the salt or pepper shaker with a craft pen. Place shaker with flavor mixture in a large popcorn bowl or gift basket.

Cajun Popcorn Flavoring

2 teaspoons paprika
1 teaspoon onion powder
1 teaspoon garlic powder
2 tablespoons salt
1/2 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
1 pinch cayenne pepper (optional)

Curry Popcorn Flavoring

1 tablespoon curry powder
2 tablespoons salt
1/4 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper

Here's how to make a specialty Father's Day Gift Basket. You can use this method to create a personalized basket containing your Dad's favorite things:

1. Purchase a large, plain bowl or basket, or a container that fits the theme of the gift (for example: toolbox for TOOL TIME gift basket; fishing tackle box for GONE FISHING basket, etc.

2. Crumple up some Father's Day wrapping paper and put it in the bottom of the basket. If the basket is very deep, you may want to put some Styrofoam or a small cardboard box under the wrapping paper to elevate the gifts.

3. Arrange the gifts with the largest gift in the back. Work toward the front until you know how you want it all to be arranged. Make sure it is balanced and nothing will fall out over the edges.

4. Place a piece of double-sided tape or a glue dot between the gifts where they touch to hold them together. This will also prevent shifting and breakage of glass items. Use double-sided tape or a glue dot to hold the gift card on to the front of the gift so that it doesn't get lost in the mix.

5. Place a big bow on the front of the bowl or basket. If it has wire to hold it on, then push one wire just under the rim of the basket to the inside. Pull the other wire over the top of the rim and twist it together. You also can stick the bow to the basket using double-sided tape or glue dots. Remember, the best gifts are the ones given with love! Happy Father's Day!

UNLESS YOU TAKE ACTION TO PROTECT YOUR PROPERTY, IT MAY BE SOLD AT A PUBLIC SALE. IF YOU NEED AN EXPLANATION OF THE NATURE OF THE PROCEEDING AGAINST YOU, YOU SHOULD CONTACT A LAWYER. Notice is hereby given that RECONTRUST COMPANY, N.A., as duly appointed trustee pursuant to the Deed of Trust executed by MOHAMMED K KHALIL, AND MAMONA K BUKSH, HUSBAND AND WIFE AS JOINT TENANTS, dated 06/20/2005 and recorded 6/30/2005, as Instrument No. 2005-0031334-00, in Book N/A, Page N/A, of Official Records in the office of the County Recorder of Yolo County, State of California, will sell on 07/01/2013 at 1:00PM, Ramada Inn and Suites, 1250 Halyard Drive, West Sacramento, CA, 95691, Captain Ballroom at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash or check as described below, payable in full at time of sale, all right, title, and interest conveyed to and now held by it under said Deed of Trust, in the property situated in said County and State and as more fully described in the above referenced Deed of Trust. The street address and other common designation, if any, of the real property described above is purported to be: 3270 CAYMAN ISLAND STREET, WEST SACRAMENTO, CA, 95691. The undersigned Trustee disclaims any liability for any incorrectness of the street address and other common designation, if any, shown herein. The total amount of the unpaid balance with interest thereon of the obligation secured by the property to be sold plus reasonable estimated costs, expenses and advances at the time of the initial publication of the Notice of Sale is $607,484.41. It is possible that at the time of sale the opening bid may be less than the total indebtedness due. In addition to cash, the Trustee will accept cashier's checks drawn on a state or national bank, a check drawn by a state or federal credit union, or a check drawn by a state or federal savings and loan association, savings association, or savings bank specified in Section 5102 of the Financial Code and authorized to do business in this state. Said sale will be made, in an "AS IS" condition, but without covenant or warranty, express or implied, regarding title, possession or encumbrances, to satisfy the indebtedness secured by said Deed of Trust, advances thereunder, with interest as provided, and the unpaid principal of the Note secured by said Deed of Trust with interest thereon as provided in said Note, plus fees, charges and expenses of the Trustee and of the trusts created by said Deed of Trust. NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on a property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information.
